

A Special Invitation to all interested in Scottish History and its effect on
New Zealand's development.

Introducing Dr Tanja Bueltmann

Tanja studied at the universities of Bielefeld and Edinburgh for her MA in British Cultural Studies, History and Sociology. With a strong background in Scottish History, she then moved to New Zealand to pursue her doctoral research on the country's Scottish immigrant community. Funded by the New Zealand government, Tanja completed her PhD at the end of 2008. Returning to Europe in early 2009, she was then appointed to join the History team at Northumbria as senior research assistant, taking up a Lectureship in International History when that position ended.

Tanja will be visiting New Zealand at the end of January and we are pleased to announce that she will be giving a talk at the 2012 Turakina Highland Games.

Saturday 28th January 2012, Turakina Domain, Turakina
Entry to the Games $10 (children under 15 free).

The talk will begin at 12.30pm.

Tanja's talk will tie in with her book "Scottish Ethnicity & the Making of New Zealand Society" with special emphasis on Highland Games in New Zealand.

Bring the whole family along for a full day of fun at a traditional Scottish festival and stay into the evening - have a bar-b-que dinner enjoy refreshments at the cash bar and relax to the music of live band "Kontiki Tangle".
